

I am a Flight Attendant with Northwest Airlines and am fully in disagreement in allowing passengers to use cell phones after the doors have been closed for department and before landing.

Passengers do not want to hear others talking on the phone. People on the phone talker louder then if they were talking to someone next to them.

People want to sleep and can't if someone is on the phone.

Most importantly, people don't listen to announcements as it is, and if they are on the phone during flight, they won't be listening to anything from us that can cause major problems.

I am opposed to this greatly. Please do not allow this to pass.

However, the issue on TSA banning lighters is stupid.
